BLAINE TO RETIRE; WALSH, KUNTZ IN JP RACE

Attorney and Retired Navy Man Justice of the Peace Contenders

Judge John D. Blaine Says "No" To 3-Way Contest; Will Retire At End of 24 Years In Office

Justice of the Peace John D. Blaine of Campbell announced his coming retirement from the public post which he has held for the past 24 years, when he stated today that he would not be a candidate for re-election. "I do not want to take part in a three-way contest," Judge Blaine explained. The elderly Campbell justice chuckled quietly, saying, "Don't you think 75 years is old enough for retirement?" Judge Blaine is an ardent bicyclist and a tennis enthusiast.

The three-way contest would have developed if Blaine had filed for re-election, since two other Campbell men have already filed declaration of intention to seek the post. They are Martin S. Walsh, 300 N. Harrison Avenue, prominent local and San Jose attorney for many years, and Raymond Foster Kuntz, retired Navy man, who established his home at 201 W. Latimer Avenue at the conclusion of his Navy career. Mrs. George H. Heiser, 97 N. Milton Avenue, and Attorney Norman A. Stoner, 131 E. Campbell Avenue, have indicated they will be co-sponsors for Kuntz.

Walsh is a native of Santa Clara Valley. He attended Santa Clara schools and was graduated from the University of Santa Clara law school. He has practiced law in this area for many years, and is a former Justice of the Peace in the City of Santa Clara. Walsh is a member of the State Bar and the County Bar Associations.

ENFORCE LAW

"I believe the law should be enforced in Campbell," he stated when asked about enforcement of the parking regulation in Campbell. On the question of establishment of night court sessions, Walsh said that if he is elected, "Absolutely, I would be willing to hold night sessions one night a week. That's all that would be necessary."

Campbell Township is one of the few townships in the county where the justice of the peace is not required to be an attorney. Regulations require that he must have resided in the town for one year to be eligible for the post, and he must be a United States citizen.

Raymond Foster Kuntz, candidate for Campbell Justice of the Peace.

RETIRED NAVY MAN

Kuntz, age 50, is a native of Tennessee. He retired as a lieutenant in the Navy on August 1, 1947, after 30 years of service. After retiring, he was in the real estate business in San Jose for two years, then moved to Campbell. Although he is no longer active in real estate, his license is at the Campbell Realty office. Since coming here, he has been appointed to the part time position of crossing guard for school children using the Winchester-Campbell Avenue intersection. He is also a deputy sheriff in this county.

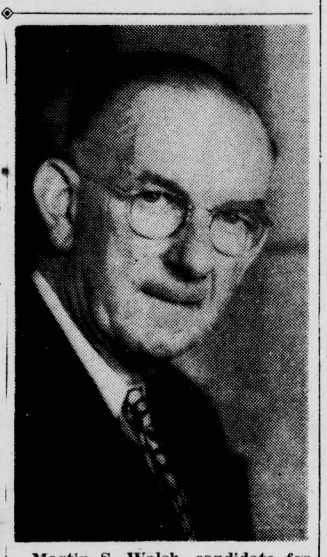
Candidate Kuntz is the son of Mrs. Eugene B. Kuntz of Long Beach and the late Mr. Kuntz. His wife is a Santa Clara girl, the former Lucille Andrade, member of a prominent valley family. A brother, Walter Kuntz, is a former manager for J. C. Penney stores in the mid-west, and is now in the real estate business in San Jose. Another brother, Burney Kuntz, now dead, also managed mid-western Penney stores.

Kuntz, himself, is a veteran of both World Wars. During World War II he was with a Navy medical unit attached to a Marine Air Wing in the South Pacific. In the first war he was on duty with the Atlantic fleet. Before his retirement he was an administrative officer with the Navy, and helped establish the Naval hospital at Casa Del Rey Hotel in Santa Cruz where he was one of the commissioning officers. He has had much personnel and administrative work during his Navy career, as well as legal duties. Since coming here, Kuntz has followed up an interest in the legal field by attending court sessions in San Jose.

FULL COOPERATION

"I think this community needs more effort spent on it," he stated in announcing his candidacy for justice of the peace. "It needs stricter administration of the law. Campbell is a large community now. I have expressed my willingness to cooperate in every way with the Volunteer Legion Patrol and other law enforcement agencies, if I am elected. I think those Legion Patrol men are doing a splendid job and I would certainly cooperate by holding night court sessions. They are willing to get out and spend their time to improve the community, and the community and law officers should be willing to cooperate with them.

"I am very much interested in this growing community and believe it is in need of more active administration. I am in a position to give it full time. If I am elected, I will fight for a dignified court location. I do not believe it should be held in a private home."



Martin S. Walsh, candidate for Campbell Justice of the Peace.

Judge John D. Blaine, retiring Campbell Justice of the Peace.

Local Constable Ethan Lanphear Seeks Re-election

Campbell Constable Ethan Lanphear has announced he will be a candidate for re-election this year. March 8 through 31 is the period for filing notice of candidacy with the County Registrar's office.

Other candidates for election to posts in this area will be Fourth District Supervisor Joseph M. McKinnon, who will seek re-election. Evidently Assemblyman Robert C. Kirkwood of Saratoga, 28th District, will be unopposed for election.

Private Police Ptrol operator Chris Bronzich, whose patrol covers the Campbell, Cupertino, Saratoga and Los Gatos unincorporated areas, has announced he will definitely be a candidate for the Saratoga Constable post.

George R. Reilly Seeks Re-Election

George R. Reilly of San Francisco today announced his candidacy for re-election as First District member of the State Board of Equalization, California's major revenue department and oldest elective board established in 1879.

Mr. Reilly was first elected to the office in 1938 and has been chairman of the five-man board for the past six months.

His statement follows:

"Since 1938 it has been my privilege to serve as First District member of the State Board of Equalization, representing the seven central coast counties of San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, San Benito, Monterey and San Luis Obispo.

"I will submit my candidacy, as in the past, to the people of both political parties.

"If elected, I will continue to toil unceasingly to administer the First District office without favoritism, but with integrity, courage and intelligence. I will continue to represent the citizens and taxpayers with the same honesty of purpose, faithfulness to trust, and devotion to sworn duty that have governed all my twelve years of public service as your board member.

Seven Persons Hurt In Local Auto Accidents

Recent traffic accidents brought injury to five youths and two women in the Campbell vicinity, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Grace Heidinger, 58, of 1115 Lincoln Court, San Jose, suffered bruises Thursday, February 23, when she was knocked down by a backing auto on San Jose-Los Gatos Road near Moorpark Avenue. Highway Patrolmen reported the driver of the car was Luke J. Schiro, 47, 1589 Keesling Avenue. The injured woman was treated at the County Hospital. Schiro was not held.

A Sunday night accident brought cuts and bruises about the face, legs and back to Bertha L. Janzen, 29, Route 1, Box 181, Campbell, when she fell from a moving car at Cambrian Corners, San Jose-Los Gatos Road. Her husband, Ralph H. Janzen, drove her to the Emergency Aid Station for treatment. She was later transferred to the O'Connor Hospital.

Hamilton Avenue and San Jose-Los Gatos Road was the scene of a Monday evening two-car collision in which two youths were hurt. Injured were Meredith D. Shattuck, 18, Box 705 Penetencia Creek Road, and his passenger, Louis Irace, 18, of 3385 Madeleine Avenue. Shattuck was treated for severe facial cuts, while Irace received treatment for back injuries. The driver of the other auto involved, Annie T. Doby, 75, of Odd Fellows Home, Saratoga, was not held. Highway Patrolman C. T. Shannon reported.

Two Campbell and one San Jose teen-age boys were injured Tuesday night at 10:30 p.m. when their car skidded on a turn and struck a tree on Payne Avenue and San Tomas Road. Injured in the mishap was Jim Herono, 16, the driver, of 498 Patch Street, San Jose. Campbell youths hurt were Tom Barton, 16, and his brother Trent, 14, both of 776 No. Carlyn Avenue. Heron and Tom Barton received broken collarbones, while Trent suffered head injuries. All were treated at O'Connor Hospital.

Campbell Volunteer Legion Patrolman Rex Kaber directed traffic during the investigation.

King and Queen To Reign Over Cambrian May Festival; Full-Day Program Planned

Cambrian School youngsters will select the king and queen to reign over the Cambrian community's big May fiesta May 7 at the school, Chairman Herb Brasch announced today. The two will be elected in a popularity contest and balloting.

Continuous entertainment will be provided during the day-long program of games, parade, prize awards and dancing. All women of the Cambrian and Campbell areas are invited by the committee to participate in the apron parade. A beautiful orchid will be presented the winner.

There will be a parade in the afternoon, folk dancing and other events. Union School and the Union District community, its men's and women's clubs, will join in the events.

The program is under auspices of the Cambrian Men's Club, and all proceeds will be used for the benefit of youth activities in Cambrian district.

Tickets for the event will go on sale March 10. Members of the committee are hard at work on detailed planning for the community fiesta. During the day the committee will give away a large $500 combination television-radio and phonograph set.

Strong Paint Co. Announces Plans For Grand Opening

Strong Paint Co., has announced its grand opening at its new location, 42 E. Campbell Avenue, will be next Friday, March 10. A special feature at the modern up-to-date shop will be a line of Dresden Craft materials and figurines, said owner Ben Strong.

Although the grand opening is next Friday, the store is now open for business. Former location of Strong Paint Company was at 381 E. Campbell Avenue, where they operated for the past 18 months.

Gifts for the customers will be presented during the opening day.

Cambrian Drive-In Theater Quashed In Planning Commission Policy Move

Cambrian District opposition to the proposed drive-in theater on McGlincey Lane received support of the County Planning Commission Wednesday, when petition for rezoning for the theater was denied by the board. Applicant for the rezoning, J. M. Reiter, received flat denial of a requested C-2 zoning for the 8-acre site on the northerly extension of McGlincey Lane.

In reaching the decision, the Planning Commission established a definite policy in regard to commercial zone applications where they would be established in a residential area. Hereafter, it was decided, rather than issue outright rezoning for property, it will consider applications as use permits. Thus, staff members explained, if the original commercial use fails, then the zone cannot be occupied by a less desirable commercial use. The permit would serve only the original use.

OTHER MATTERS

Among other Campbell matters was first public hearing on Rose E. Hangers' petition to reclassify part of her property on North Union Avenue and San Jose-Los Gatos Road opposite Cambrian Drive. Part of the property is already zoned commercially, while balance is residential. She asks commercial zoning for all of her property there. Indications were that a service station in the gore of the lot, with a store just north of it may be established.

First public hearing was held on petition of Joe Curci and Joel Lewison to reclassify to general commercial zoning the northeast and northwest corners of San Jose-Los Gatos Road and Moorpark avenue. Property is now zoned for light commercial use. They were represented by Attorney Herman Mager. Opposition to the move was registered by neighbors at this first of two public hearings. No special plan for development of the property commercially was revealed.

Letter from the Campbell Union School District, requesting approval of three tentative school sites, was not considered since the commission received a subsequent request from the school district that the matter be withdrawn. The district indicated the trustees have not completed study of the sites.

No decision is expected on the E. R. Kennedy zoning requests for his Catalpa Lane lots until the April 5 meeting of the board. A staff member said magnitude of the area survey requested by the Board of Supervisors probably will prevent an earlier decision.

Local Schools To Receive State Emergency Funds

Campbell Elementary School district has been notified that it will receive a total of $13,757.62 from the State emergency fund based on the average daily attendance during the year 1949-50, according to Supt. of Schools William C. Henley.

Figures for the 1949-50 year for the Campbell district show that the enrollment has grown 17 per cent, with an average daily attendance of 2300 as compared to 2000 during the 1948-49 year. Schools are expected to absorb 7 per cent of this growth, with the state emergency funds being granted on the other 10 per cent increase.

These funds are to be applied to current expenditures for maintenance and operating expenses and will cover the additional supplies and teachers needed to operate the school with the increased enrollment.

Funds for the emergency state school aid were voted by the emergency December legislative session.

Other schools to receive emergency legislative aid were the Cambrian Union School which will receive a sum of $6013.73 and the Union District school receiving $3481.56.

Hear Hoover Report Speech

A speech on the "Hoover Report Commission" was presented by Robert Lindsey, prominent member of the San Jose Junior Chamber of Commerce, at the Tuesday meeting of the Campbell Kiwanis Club.

The speaker ventured that the present status of the country is that we are definitely losing out because of carelessness and overstaffing of bureaus, resulting in deficit spending and a permanent unbalance of billions of dollars each year. Lindsey said that this can be corrected if a sincere effort is made to do so. However, it needs concerted action to put it across. One of drawbacks is the apathy of the politicians to do something, which might lose votes, Lindsey remarked.

Visitors at Tuesday's gathering included Ben Silva of the Minnesota Mining Corporation; William Capener, Los Gatos; Bert Ericksen, Mountain View; M. Boodway, San Jose; Remley Weeks, San Jose; and Fred Bradman, San Marino.

Guest student from Campbell High School was Tom Taketa, who was introduced by D. H. Cramer. Next week the club is planning to tour the new telephone exchange in San Jose. The local group plans to depart for San Jose after their noon luncheon in the Campbell Women's Club building.

$293.50 In Legion Patrol Donations Sent In By Appreciative Campbellites

Volunteer Legion Patrol funds climbed to $293.50 as 20 more donations were received this week from local individuals and merchants. Anyone wishing to donate to the patrol may do so by mailing his contribution to Campbell Legion Patrol, P. O. Box 746, Campbell.

Latest contributors are: Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Billings, William H. Lloyd, N. A. Lamb, F. S. Schraub, Campbell Hardware, Burnett's Appliance, J. A. Serpa, G. D. Handley, E. Lanphear, Jessie A. Campbell, A. A. Arends, L. and Maria Ipas, M&M Ice Cream, Mrs. W. E. Gould, Daisy Pannell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Souto, Benson's Cleaners, Fred Larson, C. N. McCoy and Kopper Kettle.

In letters sent to Campbell residents, support of the volunteer patrol is requested. The patrol donates its services to the community without receiving pay. All donations will be used for purchase of materials, supplies, gasoline, sidearms, patrol car maintenance, and incidental expenses of the patrol. Men give of their time and service without charge.

If each resident contributes what he believes regular police protection for his home and family would cost him, the patrol will be well on its way to solvency. Until the request for contributions was made, the men had been buying gasoline and other patrol needs with their own pocket money. The cost has become too great, and the community has been asked to lend its support to this local law enforcement group.

COMMITTEE OUTLINES DRIVE PLANS

Partial area ssignments were made and drive plans outlined at a meeting of 1950 Red Cross drive workers Monday afternoon in the office of Laurance J. Hill. Joaquin J. Payne is chairman of the Campbell drive this year, with Hill serving as vice-chairman. Quota for the local drive is $3000.

Headquarters for the local drive will be the office of realtor Guy E. Farley. Supplies will be available at the office and Mr. Farley will accept subscription returns from the workers.

Calendar for the Campbell Red Cross fund campaign, said Payne, calls for its opening on March 1, a report meeting on March 10 at a place to be announced later. The drive will close March 17.

KICKOFF RALLY

Meanwhile those at the meeting Monday and their area workers were invited by Payne to attend the big area kickoff rally March 2 at 8 p.m. in the San Jose civic auditorium. The all-volunteer show will be put on by students from San Jose State College and the University of Santa Clara, with young Gary Crosby on the program which will be emceed by Hal Moore.

Workers at the recent meeting were: Henry Jewell, Fred Jones Sr., D. H. Cramer, Laurance J. Hill, Louis Carboni, A. E. Brydon, Mrs. Ethan Lanphear, Mary Fablinger, John Duncan, Mrs. Clarence Fagalde, Mrs. Ruth Brown, Guy Farley and Chairman Payne.

Parking Signs Due

Legion Patrol To Enforce Regulation; Law Effective When Signs Installed

Parking limit signs will be installed along Campbell avenue from the railroad to Winchester Road in the next two or three weeks, the California Automobile Association announced today. The agency is providing the signs, ordered by the county following adoption of the County Parking Ordinance.

Fourth District Supervisor Joseph M. McKinnon reiterated his earlier statement in the Campbell Press that the ordinance will take effect when the signs are installed. County Surveyor Robert Chandler has notified McKinnon that the signs have been ordered from the CAA.

EFFECTIVE DATE

After signs are installed, a two-hour parking limit will be enforced along Campbell Avenue from the railroad to Winchester road. Bus loading zones and a taxi stand will be established on Central Avenue, and no-parking zones will be established in front of the Campbell Theater and Fire Department. There will be a 15-minute zone in front of the Campbell Post Office.

As to enforcement of the ordinance in Campbell, the Legion Patrol, as stated earlier, has been deputized by the County Sheriff for law enforcement work in Campbell. County Counsel Howard Campen cleared up a rumor that the California Highway Patrol would have to issue authorization to the patrol for this traffic work by pointing out that the CHP has no jurisdiction over enforcement of this ordinance which is a county regulation, not a state law. "The enforcement of the county ordinance is strictly up to the County Sheriff," said Campen. "The sheriff is the chief law enforcement officer in the county, particularly with reference to county laws. The CHP takes jurisdiction over state highways and would not enforce any local parking ordinance," he explained.

Captain Floyd Stewart of County Sheriff Howard Hornbuckle's office, when asked if the Campbell Volunteer Legion Patrol has authority to enforce the ordinance, said the men were deputized by the sheriff to carry out county laws, and "I do not believe there is any difference between parking and other laws."

TICKETS

When the questions of traffic tickets was raised, Stewart said these and other necessary printed materials are not on hand at the sheriff's office since the sheriff, until the ordinance was passed, had not been concerned with traffic enforcement. He added that he would confer with Hornbuckle on this matter.

Sheriff Hornbuckle told the Press this afternoon that he has conferred with the Legion Patrol. "They're doing a fine job out there and will assist us in carrying out that ordinance as soon as the citations are printed." The Sheriff said he hopes to have the citations printed by the time the parking signs are installed.

Supervisor McKinnon, who has taken the leading role in preparation and passage of this much-needed parking regulation for unincorporated areas of the county, said he would see to it that the tickets are printed.

NIGHT COURT

In preparation for the ordinance, Campbell American Legion Post 596 has sent a letter to Justice of the Peace John D. Blaine requesting that he hold night court sessions. The post letter explained that Legion Patrol members who would issue the parking tickets to violators would suffer considerable loss of time from their jobs if they were to appear in court with the offenders during the day court sessions. Since the patrol is a volunteer organization, the post asked that the deputized officers be accorded consideration through establishment of the requested night court. The post asked Blaine to meet with its members on this request.

Judge Blaine and the post were to meet last Friday night, but the time was postponed until mid-March at the request of the justice of the peace due to press of business.

CAMPBELL GARDEN CLUB LAUNCHES CHERRY TREE PLANTING PROJECT

Campbell may look forward to national recognition as a beautiful community, and could well make plans to hold its own annual blossom festival, upon culmination of the Campbell Garden Club's project for community beautification. Mrs. Denny Wilson, chairman of the committee, announced this week that the club's project is underway to sponsor planting of the beautiful flowering Kwanzan cherry tree in local gardens and along street side parking strips.

One hundred of these trees are now available at the Campbell Nursery, the club has announced, and these should be planted within the next two weeks. The club urges residents to purchase the trees and plant them now. Each of the 50 club members expects to buy one of the trees, so this will leave a balance of 50 trees available to the rest of the community this season. The trees are difficult to obtain in great numbers, and it is hoped that local citizens will buy them soon.

The Kwanzan cherry tree is fast growing and has a double dark pink blossom. The flowers are extremely large. The trees are green most of the year and are clean, since they do not bear fruit.

Mrs. Wilson told Garden Club members in her report at their meeting this week, that the committee will endeavor to interest as many individuals as possible in planting the trees this season.

Next year, the club will begin to purchase more of the trees for planting around public buildings, schools, churches, the library building and along streets at the entrances to town. Any interested organization is urged to communicate with the club and make arrangements for the planting program next year.

The committee will follow up planting of these trees during the blossom period with announcements of their location in order that the public may enjoy the beauty of the blossoms. A few of the trees, if planted now, will bloom this year, but the town will be a beautiful sight next year if enough trees are in by then.

The Garden Club, which will observe its third birthday anniversary on March 15, "was organized for the purpose of beautifying Campbell, and this is our first big project in this line," the committee chairman stated. "This project is our way of showing our thanks to the community for its support of the organization's annual flower shows and its other activities."

Hold Meet

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary will hold their regular meeting Wednesday evening, March 8 in the upstairs hall of the IOOF building with president Mrs. Pat Burch presiding. Refreshments will be served following the close of the business session.

Geographic Issue To Be Duplicated

Publishers of the National Geographic Magazine have notified Campbell Postmaster Ira Grim that the March issue of the monthly magazine will be duplicated for subscribers.

In a letter to Postmaster Grim, Robert E. Doyle of the National Geographic staff said the copies for this area were damaged in transit by a broken steam line on the mail train near Elko, Nevada. Doyle stated that duplicate copies of the damaged issue would be sent to all subscribers in the Campbell area.

Hospital Board May Choose Site Monday Night

Selection of a site for the proposed West Valley Hospital will be the main item on the agenda when the West Valley Hospital District board of directors meets Monday night. Chairman Herbert M. Shadle of Campbell revealed this week that board members have been investigating possible sites in the tri-community area to be served by the hospital. This area includes the communities of Campbell, Saratoga and Los Gatos.

While the board's previous applications for state and federal hospital aid funds have been rejected, Shadle said, the board intends to go ahead with choice of a site in anticipation of possible allocation of funds during the coming year.

MEMBERS

Board members are: Shadle, Attorney Martin S. Walsh of Campbell, Colonel Alton W. Howard and Dr. Merlin T. R. Maynard, both of Saratoga; Harry Whiteman, board secretary, and George Stepovich, attorney, both of Los Gatos.

Estimated cost of the 50-bed hospital is $870,000. Under the fund allocation procedure, accepted hospital districts would receive one-third of the cost from the state, another third from the federal government. The final third would be raised by the district itself. Next meeting of the State Hospital Advisory Council will be held about June or July, and it is hoped that the aid will be allocated the local hospital district at that time.

Dalmatians Find Injured Woman, Anna Rickers

Mrs. Anna Rickers of W. Campbell Avenue suffered a broken hip in a fall late Monday night at her home. A County Hospital staff member reported she is doing well, and that an operation was scheduled for yesterday. Her son in Arkansas has been notified. Although she fell Monday night, the elderly woman's plight was not discovered until early Tuesday morning.

Dalmatian dogs of Mr. and Mrs. William Ammon, neighbors who live at 10 W. Campbell Avenue, were credited with finding Mrs. Rickers after her fall. The Ammons said their dog, Champion Velvet and Lace of KalDal, and her two puppies, Valiant Lace and Lovelace, set up a sudden commotion shortly after midnight Tuesday morning. The Ammons looked outside, found nothing, and quieted the dogs. The same barking began again at 3 a.m. and was quieted; then again at 4 p.m.

The last time, the Ammons heard what they thought was a cat meowing. Listening carefully, they heard a woman's voice calling, "Please, help me." They went over to Mrs. Rickers' home and found her lying at the foot of steps leading into a former garage at the rear of her home. Constable Ethan Lanphear was called by the Ammons and he summoned an ambulance to take the elderly woman to Santa Clara County Hospital. Meanwhile, Mrs. Rickers, who evidently had lain on the cold cement floor for hours, was cared for at the Ammon home.

Mrs. Ammon credited the dogs with finding the injured woman. She explained that Dalmatians were formerly used as guard dogs.

Two Women Die In Road Accident; Driver Released

Two Campbell women, Gilman Avenue neighbors, met instant death Sunday at 2 a.m., when they were struck by the automobile driven by Douglas V. Strong, 24, of 148 California Street, Campbell. Dead are Mrs. Zelma Brannon, 38, of 37 Gilman Avenue, and Mrs. Gladys A. Pierce, 32, of 29 Gilman Avenue. The accident occurred on San Jose-Los Gatos Road, near Hamilton Avenue, near Steve's Place.

Strong told California Highway Patrolman Edward Jelcich and Warren Moore he was driving south on San Jose-Los Gatos Road and did not see the women until his car struck them. He said that cars parked near the tavern obstructed his vision. The highway scene of the accident is unlighted. Strong was released after questioning.

Investigating officers reported there were no witnesses of the accident. Acquaintances of the victims said the women had been seen in the tavern shortly before the accident, and probably had been returning to their nearby car when the accident occurred.

PIERCE FUNERAL

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Mrs. Pierce, from the Rutherford Funeral Home, Campbell. Rev. O. B. Vossler and Mrs. Vossler, of Calvary Temple Church officiated at the 2 p.m. funeral rites. Interment was at Santa Clara City Cemetery.

Stewart; brothers Clarence and George Stewart of Newark, and John Stewart of Campbell, and sisters, Mrs. Ruby Holder of Campbell and Mrs. Helen Garrison of Fayettville, Arkansas. She was a native of Oklahoma.

BRANNON RITES

Final services for Mrs. Brannon were conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. from Rutherford's, with the Rev. Herbert Johnson officiating. Mrs. Brannon was the wife of Roy Brannon of Campbell; mother of LeRoy, Frances, Jean, Joyce, Janice and Judy Brannon, all of Campbell; daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Burrows of Howe, Oklahoma; sister of Mrs. Lois Romine of Kellyville, Oklahoma; Mrs. Viola Pedan and Mrs. Velma Maddox of Okemah, Oklahoma; Dorothy Burrows of Howe, Oklahoma; Mrs. Lucille Thompson of Oroville, Earl Burrows, of Poteau, Oklahoma, and Milburne Burrows of Richmond. No definite date has been set for the opening of the New Camden Avenue bridge, reports Robert Chandler, county road commissioner and surveyor.

Proposals for curtailment of sex crimes as discussed by Stoner included emasculation of convicted offenders and development of institutions for the prevention of sex crimes. Only 10 percent of this type of crime is committed by prior offenders, he told Rotarians.

J. Frederic Snyder, chairman of the day for next Monday's meeting, will introduce as the speaker, Ralph Lawson of Le Deit Glass Company.

Campbell Girl's Prize Painting In National Contest

Campbell High School student Barbara Shockley, whose painting, "Down On the Farm," was chosen one of the 150 winners in the northern California 1950 Scholastic Art Contest, will enter her painting in the national exhibit at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, this May.

Barbara, member of the junior class, is secretary of the Associated Student body, and a charter member of the Art Honorary Society. Her art instructor, Mrs. Marian Winston, has encouraged Barbara to develop her talent. The young Campbell girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Shockley of 191 W. Rincon Avenue, was awarded a regional Gold Achievement Key in the art contest last week in San Francisco.

Winning art work, selected from 1200 entries in 43 counties, will be on exhibit at the Emporium, San Francisco, until March 11.

Thirty volunteers turned out on March 1 for the annual Red Cross Fud drive under the chairman ship of Joaquin Payne, who stated that results are very good so far. It is hoped that everyone able will contribute to this worthy drive.

No Funds Available This Year For Crossing Lights

It appears that the installation of traffic signals at Hamilton Avenue and San Jose-Los Gatos Road has hit an obstacle, at least temporary.

The Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors were informed Monday that 1950-51 highway funds have already been allocated. A letter from John H. Skeggs, assistant State highway engineer, indicated that funds may be made available next fiscal year for the project.

WE SALUTE

THE SUNRISE!

Every morning when Nature puts on her rosy-hued drama, the world awakes to another day of Opportunity. Men have been known to say, "I never had a chance." But that is the mere mouthing of those who have lost faith in Tomorrow. When the sun comes up, he brings with him a brand new day, a day on which yesterday can be forgotten and now, today, is the important consideration. So let's be up and doing. "The world is so full of a number of things that we should all be as happy as Kings!" Time is only a man-made invention. What you do with yours is a continuing challenge!

Farming Is A --SCIENCE

By J. E. DUNN

Along about this time of year a grower is probably deeply concerned with the question of producing this year's crop. The keen disappointments involved with last year's crop are not all a memory only. Some of them are still bitter lessons and become the production problems of the year.

A clear understanding of the causes which brought about the troubles of the past year, or several years, must be had. Costs are indicative. Some places there was too much spent and in other places not enough. Unnecessary things were done. Because of past failures a grower sometimes becomes quite gullible for "cure-alls" that are offered him.

Now that spring is just around the corner, the grower decides that he is not going to do any of those foolish things again. But how is he going to avoid them? No grower can carry on his production program and keep posted on every technical advance or in all phases of beneficial crop production practices.

In order to carry out these firm resolves to "make it pay" this year, all the scientific data possible should be brought into play the same as in building a bridge, an airplane or a building. This is not the usual practice with growers, however, it seems, because a major portion of the crop production practices of this Nation are continued year after year in spite of the all-too-evident fact that the soil is being depleted and future crops cannot possibly be of normal value.

The thing for the grower to do, then, is to actually avoid those practices that have cost him money with no returns in crop or increased land values. He should avail himself of all the scientific data which pertains to his production program. Consult with unbiased technicians and outline a logical program for the soil and better crop production regardless of what materials might be indicated or which farming practice

James W. McIver is proprietor of Western Cold Storage Company, 40 N. 4th Street, San Jose. Says McIver: "Our company is a heavy advertiser. We know when we get restults. So, it gives me great pleasure to tell the world that no advertising medium we have ever used has brought such outstanding results as the FARM CLINIC SUPPLEMENT."

Philip Barbaccia, of Dry Creek Road near Campbell, is on of Santa Clara County's top ranking orchardists. He said after reading the story of J. W. McIver's Western Cold Storage Company's war against high meat prices: "More power to McIver and his associates. We farmers are certainly for him. He's started a battle he can't lose because both the meat producer and the consumer are better off under his merchandising methods."

YOUR FARM IS YOUR DESTINY

By SILAS PERKINS

Last week I referred to the sprinkling system of Jack Farnham, Campbell rancher, as an experiment that proved sprinklers were better for strawberries than other types of irrigation. Says Farnham: "I do not consider our experiment has proved anything, yet. Last Fall's berry plants were young, and the leaf growth was not heavy enough for a real test. It will require one more season of growth before we can make a definite statement as to the success or failure of the overhead sprinklers."

If your berries mold after sprinkling there are two chief reasons. (1) You sprinkle at the wrong time of the day. (2) Your soil is unbalanced and low in active humus.

A surprising number of farmers write in asking "what exactly is humus?" Many of them seem to think humus is organic matter. Here is a definition of humus: "Humus is organic matter after it has been decomposed . . . broken down . . . by soil bacteria and other soil organisms."

Organic matter, green manure, farm manure, plant stubble, etc., becomes humus rapidly if soil moisture is right. If a ton of fresh organic matter (dry weight) is worked into the soil, decomposition begins immediately. Under favorable conditions of moisture, temperature, and aeration, only one half the original ton will be left within two or three weeks. Within a month or six weeks only one quarter of that ton will be left.

Obviously, if the soil is to be kept alive and active frequent additions of crop residues must be made. Says C. E. Miller, professor of soil science, Michigan State College: "Without doubt, one of the greatest limiting factors in crop production is the low humus supply, or to low activity of the humus."

Soils must be kept at the correct pH for the crop growing. Says Ralp C. Cole, chief, land classification section, U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, in Bulletin 712, College of Agriculture, University of California: "Certain plant diseases are caused by soil organisms. A change in soil reaction often is an effective control for such diseases."

He calls attention to the fact

Annual Cost of Gophers, Moles Over $4 Billion

By JAMES N. CRAWFORD

There are no exact figures available on the amount of destruction caused by gophers and moles in the gardens and fields of the United States, but agricultural authorities estimate it runs to nearly four billion dollars a year . . . enough to finance hydrogen bombs for both the United States —and Russia.

Despite all known methods of control, moles and gophers grow increasingly destructive. This is largely due to the fact that gardeners and farmers have learned little about the habits of these pests. Most persons assume that the same trap, or the same poisoned bait will get both. Actually, except for the Superior mole and gopher trap, no single trap made will serve to catch both. No poisoned bait that will get gophers has any attraction for moles. And poisoned bait that kills moles will not interest gophers.

Crawford

Gophers are vegetarians. Moles eat nothing but "meat." Gophers seldom eat the foods and bulbs they steal at the time of the theft. They lug their harvest back into deep burrows, and store it there for a "rainy day." It is not unusual for a single gopher, in areas where bulbs and tubers are grown, to get away with $50 worth in a single night.

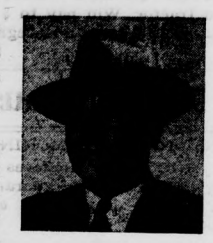
Farmers Happy As Novel "Game" Brings Them Much Needed Cash

There's a new game sweeping Santa Clara County. It's more fascinating than Bingo, more appealing than Canasta, more intriguing than Poker. People would rather play it than go to a show, or hear an opera. It's the dog-gondest game on earth. Everybody wins . . . and there is no limit to the winnings.

The game is called Good Neighbor Auction. Its inventors are Norris Gray and Daniel P. Tresaden; the former ten years out of Iowa; the latter, seemingly, fresh out of Ireland.



Gray

Here's the way this unique game is played: A farmer lends a barn or shed for the occasion. His neighbors get together and start going through their buildings and houses for items of equipment, merchandise, livestock, canned fruit, vegetables, baby buggies, buckets, pails, milk separators, or any of the thousand-and-one things that accumulate whereever people live.

These are lugged over to the farmer with the shed. They are listed and sorted and displayed. Then Gray and Treasaden gaze fondly over the assembled crowd, and start their auction: It's fun. It's profitable for everyone. It's good business.

At a recent "good neighbor auction," farmers for miles around came to buy or sell. Churches brought used clothing. The PTA brought cakes, pies and puddings. Housewives brought jars of fruit and vegetables they couldn't get their families to eat. Kids brought toys, scooters, tricycles. Old men brought walking sticks and Christmas ties. Old ladies brought wheel chairs and knitted socks. More than $3,000 worth of odds and ends were sold that day. Every farm and dwelling in the rrea found corners clean and bare for the first time in many years.

Gray and Tresaden sell or buy anything. They have more licenses than some firms have merchandise. They have import licenses, export licenses, real estate licenses, auctioneer's licenses, to mention a few They are liquidators and appraisers. They operate a furniture and appliance retail store, and hold auctions in it every Friday night. The Friday night auctions attract more people than the neighborhood movie.

Tresaden

Says Gray: "I wish more people realized they can bring their unwanted stuff to us on consignment. We'll sell it, and send them checks."

Says Tresaden: "Shure, an' it's a grreat life. People are fine. Business is fine. And auctions are the spice of life, b' gorra!"

Their business is known as the National Auction Company and Action Furniture Company. The address is 349 Lincoln Avenue, San Jose.

NEMATODES

Nematodes, and there are about thirty-five different kinds, are destroying millions of dollars worth of American farm crops each year. In the West, root knot nematodes, beet nematodes and lesion nematodes have become so destructive that thousands of acres of row crops and orchards were abandoned to them during 1949.

Nematode means "threadlike." Most of the worms are too small

The first fertilizer experiment was begun at State College, Pa., in 1872, and during the next 25 years were started in all parts of the country.

At first fertilizers were scattered broadcast or along the row by hand. But as time passed, labor-saving methods were devised and machines were introduced for broadcasting, for applying fertilizer in one operation, for side dressing, and finally came combin-

POPULAR RECORDS. With a touch of blarney and a slight brogue Perry Como gives forth with a tune for this very Irish time of year, "Did Anyone Ever Tell You, Mrs. Murphy" (Victor 20-3684). Lyrics are casually funny but with an undercurrent of romance, it isn't often that we find a song sung by a man to his wife and about their little girl. If you listen closely you will hear the old tune "The Irish Washerwoman" floating around in the orchestral background.

The rich earthy tune, "God's Country," is treated to a very dramatic reading by Vic Damone (Mercury 5374). Vic has swell orchestral backing with a chorus thrown in for good measure. This is a strong scintillating tune by the same writing team that turned out the "Lucky Old Sun" and "Old Master Painter."

The two top songs from the new Columbia show album GENTLEMEN PREFER BLONDES have been released on one single record. DIAMONDS ARE A GIRL'S BEST FRIEND & A LITTLE GIRL FROM LITTLE ROCK, (Columbia 4254). Carol Channing does both songs here as she does in the show. Carol very definitely has a way of putting a song over but I'm not so sure you can say she sings them.

SONGS BY BILLY ECKSTINE (M-G-M 48) gives us the Great Mr. B singing six familiar songs. Billy's powerful voice and his unique interpretations will add to the popularity of these favorite songs. I like OVER THE RAINBOW and NOBODY KNOWS THE TROUBLE I'VE SEEN, especially, although SOMEONE TO WATCH OVER ME seems to be more popular with most listeners.

CHILDREN'S RECORDS: If the children enjoy Western Movies, Smiley Burnette is no stranger to them. Records by Smiley will be more than welcomed by the youngsters and they will be both fascinated and amused by his singing of BLUE BOTTLE FLY & SMART ALEC CROW (Capitol 30129). Smiley has an inimitable song styling and both these songs were written by him.

CLASSICAL RECORDS: Haydn's perenially popular SYMPHONY NO. 101 in D MAJOR (The Clock) is given a beautifully sympathetic reading by Ernest Ansermet and L'Orchestre De La Suisse Romande (London LPS 54). With life at such a mad pace there is something singularly refreshing and relaxing in the symphonies of Haydn. Haydn said, "Life is a charming affair," and that is just what his music portrays. This music does not have the emotional ferment of the symphonies of Beethoven or Brahms. Ernest Ansermet is a conductor who concerns himself with making the most of the delicately balanced phrases, the fine symmetrical design, the clear tonalities and the charming melodies of Haydn. There is a sparkle to this recording that is missing from many of the recorded versions of Haydn's symphonies and the credit must go to both the conductor and the Full Frequency Range Recording thetechnique of London Gramophone Company.

A musician of many gifts is Erno von Dohnanyi and in SUITE EN VALSE (Columbia ML 4256) we have hi mboth as composer and pianist. Suite en Valse could almost be called a "Waltz Symphony" since the four waltzes follow closely the pattern of the four movements of a symphoony. Edward Kilenyi is the other pianist in this delightful set of waltzes for two pianos. Dohnanyi's music has much of the same spirit of laughter and gaiety that we find in Haydn. The other side of this record shows Dohnanyi as a remarkably creative arranger. He has taken the Delibes: Naila—Waltz and Schubert: Valses Nobles and made brilliant concert arrangements. Edward Kilyeni, Dohnanyi's distinguished pupil, is the soloist.

London has given us another very fine piano recording in the BRAHMS: SONATA NO. 3 IN F MINOR (London LLP 122) with Julius Katchen as soloist. Perhaps the fact that both the composer and the performer are of about the same age, Brahms wrote this sonata at 20 and Katchen is only 23 now, explains how Katchen seems to become so much a part of the music. He plays with such deep insight and understanding, handling the technical problems of the Sonata beautifully.

County H. E. Club Has Potluck And Reports Session

Santa Clara County Pomona Home Economics Club met at the Sunnyvale Congregational Church for their regular monthly session on Tuesday, February 28, with Chairman Florence Sheffer presiding, and Sunnyvale HEC acting as hostesses. A potluck dinner of good home cooked food was served, and about eighty members enjoyed it. A program was presented by the Sunnyvale group consisting of community singing, vocal solos by Mrs. Wier of Sunnyvale Grange, an interesting reading by Magdalene Schrenk and a flower display by Gertrude Stacy of the Sunnyvale school faculty.

The chairman, or a representative of each subordinate HEC in the county, reported on their respective projects for the year. Mrs. Lula Bell King of San Jose HEC explained the Golden Rule Committee of her club which consists of all members who agree to visit the sick and live according to the Golden Rule.

It was decided by vote of the members to have a men's night meeting in July at the Gilroy HEC as hostesses. A floral display in honor of National Flora Mrs. George Schlemeyer and State H. E. Chairman Mabel Glenn will be the feature of the April meeting at Orchard City.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, March 27 in the American Legion Hall, East Palo Alto.

I0OF Lodge Opens Pedro Tournament With Campbellites

The challenge to a pedro tournament by a delegation from Morning Light Lodge 42 of Campbell, at last week's meeting of Cupertino Lodge 70, IOOF, was accepted by the latter. The playing, which will involve six evenings, began at Cupertino Monday evening, and will alternate at Campbell on Thursdays. Participants will contest for a supper at the expense of the losers.

Cupertino Lodge will indulge in a chicken dinner at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, March 6, with Brother Grover C. Bishop as chef de cuisine. Lodge members are requested to make personal reservations.

India Memoirs

By Dr. J. C. Johannes

Part Four—(Continued from previous issue)

"HOLY MAN"

We buy second class tickets and after stepping across several people stretched out on the platform we manage to get to our train. In our compartment there are five berths in the form of padded benches, two upper, two lower, and one in the center. For a while we are the only passengers in this compartment. But soon here arrives a big burly Indian with long bushy hair, wrapped up in a yellow robe and followed by a retinue of servants who are similiarly clad. He is a Sunyasi or "holy man" and has a very large following. He does not have to work for a living. His followers or worshippers simply shower him with food, clothing and money and shelter him wherever he goes. As the seats are "polluted," yellow robes are spread on one of them before the Sunyasi can occupy it. It is evident that he is well fed, for he weighs over 250 pounds and needs assistance to get on the seat. After he has been made comfortable, his followers file by, one by one, and fall at his feet in worship and adoration.

Our train stops every five or ten minutes to let passengers off. At each stop the yellow garbed men file in to render homage to their saint, even if it is for one or two minutes. In every station there are many vendors who rush to the train yelling and singing out the names of the articles they are selling, such as curios, tea, bread, biscuits (cookies), Indian sweets, water, fruits, etc.

The passengers stick their heads out through the windows and, with pennies in their outstretched hands, eagerly call for a cup of tea and some biscuits. Tea is carried in either aluminum or brass kettles on portable charcoal stoves and is served in earthen cups which are discarded after they are used. This process is repeated at every station till we reach our destination five or six hours later, thus covering a distance of 108 miles.

There is quite a stir at the station as every one is trying to get off as quickly as possible. A couple of coolies are obtained to carry our luggage from the train to a river steamer, as the rest of the journey is continued by boat.

POOR SUBSTITUTE

Our honored fellow-passenger, to our surprise, accompanies us to the same boat and travels "first class" with us. First class here is a poor substitute for third class on American boats. Each cabin has two bunks with old cocoanut coir mattresses, and no pillows. Anyway, it doesn't matter, for we spread our bedding roll right over the mattress, and, after having supper out of our lunch basket, prepare for the night.

Before retiring we go out on the deck, which is about ten or fifteen feet long in the front section of the boat, to get a breath of fresh air. Our curiosity is aroused as we turn around and see through the window the Sunyasi spread out on the bunk covered with the yellow robe. His attendants file in one by one bringing him food and water. We watch him devour a large plate of rice and curry and wash it down with several glasses of water. After the excitement has died down we retire for the night.

It is early in the morning. As we are nearing our destination we hurriedly roll up our bedding, pack our belongings and get out on the deck. Our illustrious friend is sitting in one of the chairs. His followers are there too, sitting at his feet. We try to enter into conversation with him, but do not find him very communicative. However, we succeed in taking a snapshot of him.

It seems as though the boat let us off on the wrong side of the river as our destination is on the opposite side. This problem is solved by hiring a canoe for about ten cents, the only type of transportation available on these waters, to take us across. The Sunyasi continues his journey to the next village where a large crowd is waiting with flowers and garlands to greet him. A religious celebration is to take place on the morrow which is usually followed by a great feast.

Incidentally, a year later during one of my sojourns on this same route something interesting happened. Arriving at the railroad station I heard the crude village brass band playing in front of one of the vans where a large crowd was gathered. My efforts to find out the cause of all this rejoicing were futile. When the train reached its destination the band started playing again. Hurriedly I purchased my steamer ticket, put my luggage in the cabin and came out to see what the excitement was about. Here was the band leading a procession to the boat. A box was being carried reverently by a group of yellow garbed men. Glory be! Here was our Sunyasi friend, lying motionless in a coffin covered with flowers. He had succumbed to an overdose of rich food and was being carried to that same village for cremation.

Victim's Widow In Damage Suit

Mrs. Olga Subdon, 26, Campbell, was awarded $70,000 damages by a jury in Superior Court of Judge John D. Foley for death of her husband in an elevator mishap. Award went against the First National Bank.

The widow charged that Clarance Subdon, 28, a carpenter, died from head injuries suffered January 29, 1948, when his body was caught between the top of an unfinished elevator and the first floor when the lift gave way. It was being used to transport men and material to an upper floor during a remodeling job and fell 30 feet to the bottom of the shaft, she asserted.

Jury deliberated on the case from 10:10 a.m. to 3:10 p.m. before returning the verdict. According to court attaches, the amount voted by the jury was the largest award voted in a wrongful death case in this county in their memories.

The Campbell resident was represented by Attorney James F. Boccardo.

to be seen by the naked eye, but the beet nematode can be readily seen on the hairlike roots six or eight weeks after planting.

There is hardly an acre of land on earth that is not infested with nematodes of some kind, to some degree. In healthy, humus-rich soils, nematodes give little trouble. It is only in the soils depleted by single-cropping, clean cultivation, and improper use of fertilizers that the nematode becomes a scourge.

Incidentally, people get nematodes, too. Trichinosis, the disease caused by eating under-done pork and bear meat, is a nematode infestation. So is the dread Guinea worm that became familiar to our fighters in the South Pacific during the war. The hookworms of the South, and the pinworms that often infest children are also nematodes.

Nematodes introduced into healthy soil are soon overpowered by bacteria, and do little harm. Louis Bromfield, probably the greatest experimental farmer in the world, tells of introducing nematodes into humus-rich soil, and watching what happened to them. He says that within a few days the nematodes were literally smothered by bacteria, and that crops planted in the thick of the infestation showed no signs of injury.

Nematodes introduced into depleted soils, however, increase rapidly, and a small infestation, started perhaps by a little clod dropped from the wheel of a wagon, or the tread of a tractor, will spread so fast that nematode-susceptible crops will have to be abandoned in that field within two or three years.

The loss to nematodes of crops is terrific, so terrific that only a few courageous newspapers, like the San Jose Mercury Herald, dares publish the true state of affairs. Most newspapers fear the wrath of chambers of commerce, and other civic bodies, should they announce that more than 20 per cent of every crop planted is now destroyed each year by soil pests.

Any cure of nematodes in depleted soils is temporary. If, after eradicating soil pests, the farmer continues attempting to grow crops without sufficient humus, the pests will return.

There are several methods of eradicating nematodes that have proved effective in tests made by agricultural experiment stations, most notably, that of the University of Florida in Gainesville.

Nematodes are found at all depths to which host roots penetrate. The young worms swim through moist soil. Water washing across infested fields spreads them rapidly. Dirt on tools, shoes of workers, and the feet of animals is the way the infestation is generally spread. It is not unusual for a tractor, for instance, to bring in enough infested dirt to infest a field of thirty or more acres.

There are few crops grown that are absolutely immune to root knot nematode, but some are less susceptible than others. Among the least susceptible are corn, peanuts, mustard, sugar cane and Irish potatoes. However, all of these are susceptible to other types of nematodes. The potato, for instance, is duck soup for the golden nematode in the East.

The allegedly nematode-resistant strains of certain crops are just as subject to infestation in depleted soils as are the less resistant strains.

The thing to remember is that nematodes can be eradicated, and that by correct crop rotation and land revitalization, the nematodes can be kept out of your soils. The thing for the farmer to do is to select the method best suited to his land and his pocketbook.

(Next week: Methods of eradicating nematodes.)

is needed, just so it fits the particular needs of the individual field or crop.

First, a systematic testing of the soil should be started, with the mapping and sampling being done by a trained fieldman. Unless samples of soil are taken properly, and in the same manner each time during the test, there can be no intelligent results. Let the specialist show you how, if you want to take them for the subsequent tests necessary during the crop year.

Next, a grower must be sure to give the technician all the data that might just possibly have some relationship to the soil and crop condition at the time the tests are started. Without ALL this pertinent information the test results obtained in the laboratory are of no value.

Then the grower should work hand-in-hand with the technician in obtaining the relationship between past crop responses and farming practices with the test results in order to shape a recovery or maintenance program that will be profitable.

This can hardly be done by mail, or correspondence, unless a lot of time is consumed in getting all the facts to go with the test results, and in making comparisons needed by the technician in arriving at an outline of proposed practices or use of materials. In starting a recovery program, the grower must be sure that his testing and fieldwork is not being done just to further the sale of some particular material, and that when materials are prescribed he secures them from dealers who will not substitue or otherwise deviate from the schedule outlined.

Dont expect the State or USDA agencies to do this work for you. They have never been equipped for it and don't have the time or men to do the work necessary. However, most agency men will co-operate with a grower in a constructive program when it is conducted by unbiased technicians and not by promoters for a sales program for materials, because the methods and technical information used are the results of many years of work on the part of the extension service and agricultural college specialists.

In order to secure the best possible results in a soil-building or -recovery program, all farming practices must be co-ordinated.

Irrigation water should be analyzed and its application tsudied by a competent irrigation engineer —either from the local governmental agencies or from a reliable dealer. There are various factors involved in the use of irrigation and they must all be considered in their relationship to each other and to the irrigation program as a whole in order to get the most out of the use of the water and at the least cost.

The use of spray materials, insecticides and weedicides can have an important bearing on the overall program on any farm. Be sure that the entomoligist working with you in your control schedule is not interestd just in the sale of a certain material. There are many capable and unbiased men who make this type of work their sole purpose in life and a grower must have the services of such a technician in order to avoid being "sold a bill of goods" as has so often been the case in the past. New and untried materials should be left to the Department of Agriculture for trials and not bought by the farmer to the detriment of his crop and land at a cost he cannot afford.

General Grant's old axiom, "Be sure are right, then go ahead and see it through!" surely applies to "this business of farming."

The City of San Francisco occupies the entire 42 square miles of San Francisco County.

ation fertilizer-planters.

Fertilizer use increased rapidly because it was giving good results. The natural fertility of the soil was declining, and the added plantfood greatly increased crop yields. But during the past 30 years fertilizers changed a great deal. They became more soluble—hence, more likely to delay or prevent the sprouting of seeds or to injure young plants when not properly applied.

Animal and vegetable by-products which were formerly used largely as fertilizers went more and more into livestock feeds and were replaced by the chemical forms of nitrogen. Potash salts became more concentrated, Superphosphate replaced bonemeal. Rates of application went up as agriculture became more intensive.

As a result of using fertilizers made from these more soluble and more concentrated materials, cases of injury increased and over 20 years ago a few persons, principally agronomists and fertilizer manufacturers, began to realize that more accurate information was needed on methods of applying fertilizer. To meet this situation, The National Fertilizer Association established a fellowship at the University of Wisconsin in 1919. Prof. Emil Truog and his graduate students started to experiment. A little later experiments were carried on at the New Jersey Experiment Station.

In 1925, the National Joint Committee on Fertilizer Application was organized at the suggestion of the late Dr. Jacob G. Lipman, director of the New Jersey Experiment Station, who was a world authority on soils and fertilizers. This committee is composed of five committees representing the American Society of Agronomy, the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, the American Society for Horticultural Science, the Farm Equipment Institute, and the National Fertilizer Association.

This joint committee began a mass attack on fertilizer application problems in an organized and systematic manner. Experiments in all parts of the country were conducted on the same general plan so that results could be compared and studied. Scientists became interested and the number of experiments expanded rapidly.

More About Annual Cost Of

Moles, on the other hand, do not eat anything but fishworms, grubs, cutworms, and similar "meat dishes." Moles are terrific eaters, and each 24 hours, every mole in the land eats his own weight in worms. A mole deprived of worms starves to death within from 10 to 12 hours.

In Italy fifty years ago, an ingenious farmer invented a trap that caught moles in quantities never approached by any other trap. By tests, he found the trap was just as efficinet in trapping gophers. Business boomed, for gopher skins and mole skins in Europe bring good prices. The new trap caught the animals without injuring the hides, and many an Italian farmer added to his income by such trapping.

The patent rights for that trap were bought by Huge McGee and myself, and we have been manufacturing the trap in Los Gatos. The trap is scientifically designed, and cashes in on the burrowing and pushing habits of moles and gophers.

For instance, a gopher meeting an obstacle as he burrows, either tries to push it aside or climb over it. The mole always tries to go under such an obstacle. Ordinary traps set for gophers catch them all right, but the same trap, set the same way in a mole run, is useless.

Our trap consists of a ring through which the mole or gopher pushes his head. The trigger is set in such a way that it acts no matter what direction the animal takes upon meeting it.

Until the Superior trap was manufactured, agricultural authorities said: "To catch a mole or gopher, you have to have more brains than a mole or gopher." Today these same authorities say: 'You no longer need brains. All you need is a Superior trap."

that potato scab is practically unknown when pH is at 5.5 or less; and that club root in cabbages does not occur in neutral or alkaline soils.

I go farther than that. I say that when humus content is sufficient, when humus activity is high, when pH is correct for the crop that few harmful diseases develop in the plants; and that insects shun plants grown under those conditions.

Strawberries grown in depleted soils will always be subject to verticillium, crown borer, root aphids, mites, and almost every other strawberry disease.

To make sprinkling ihrigation effective, sprinkling must be done at the right time of the day, and in correct amounts . . . neither too much water, nor too little water. Many sprinkler systems in berries are overworked. Do not sprinkle until the berries actually need it, is a good rule.

Sprinkling systems give best results when water is applied after sundown. There are important scientific reasons for this, which will be explained in my next article.
